DIFFERENTIATION OF CONDITIONS OF TOWN-PLANNING DEVELOPMENT OF THE CITIES OF TEHERAN (IRAN)

Teheran borrows the extensive area - 1500 km². In the north it borders on spurs of Elbrus which separate it from Caspian sea, and in the south the saline desert approaches to city. Special landscape and nature conditions, and also stages of historical development of city have predetermined differentiation of approaches to reconstruction of city space. In clause on an example of transformation northern 'montage' (large administrative-planning area) town-planning receptions of an individual approach to perfection of a fragment of city space are shown.
